TRANSCRIPTS

Section 1.

- Interviewer: We have Carrie Lewis on the show today, who has just returned from a four-month holiday in Europe. Have you always spent so long travelling?
- Carrie: During the past few years I have tried to do as much travelling as possible. I'm 22 and I know eventually I have to start a career, but at the moment I want to see as much of the world as possible before I have responsibilities like children.
- Interviewer: But where do you find the money to go on such long holidays?
- Carrie: Well, I certainly don't stay in expensive hotels. I wish I could. I often go camping or stay with people I have met on an earlier holiday. Most places have youth hostels that can be fairly cheap, though I haven't stayed in one for a while. Then of course you can always find work while you're travelling.
- Interviewer: Is that easy to do?
- Carrie: It depends where you are. It's usually easy to find work as a waiter or waitress, but it's a good idea to arrive early in the year as the jobs get taken quickly. In some countries you can work on farms picking fruit. A friend of mine found work in a hotel and I might try that myself next year.
- Interviewer: So where did you go this year?
- Carrie: I started in France and spent time travelling around some of the big cities. But I wanted to get to Greece to work in a restaurant. I had written to a few places before I left home and one of them had offered me work so I wanted to get there as soon as possible. I went by train and found a place to stay in Athens.

Interviewer: And did you get the job?
Carrie: I did. It was a lovely family restaurant in Athens, and they were looking for someone who could speak English to help with the customers. They've got children who can speak it but they weren't around over the summer, so they employed me.
Interviewer: So that paid for your holiday then?
Carrie: Most of it, yes. It was perfect for me as they only wanted me to work there during the week. That meant I could visit the islands at the weekend. I used to catch the boat on Friday evening, have two nights on an island somewhere and then get back on Sunday night ready for work.

Amy: What do you think about this computer, Cris?
Cris: I like it but I don't think I have enough money. It's too expensive.
Amy: Your parents have said they'll pay for it, haven't they?
Cris: They've given me some money but it's not enough. I'll still have to pay some of it myself and I can't afford that one.
Amy: So let's look at some others then. What about a laptop? Have you thought about getting one of those instead?
Cris: I'm not sure.
Amy: Well ... You'll be able to carry it around and you can take it into college with you so it would be really useful. You needn't use the computers at college then.
Cris: Maybe. But I'll probably need to buy a printer as well to have at home.
Amy: There are lots of printers to choose from. This one here is in the sale. It's not very much at all.
Cris: I suppose not. But I don't really think I need a laptop. I work in my room most of the time and I don't want to take one into college.
Amy: Well what about the computer we saw in the window in the last shop? Shall we go back there? It was OK and it wasn't too expensive.
Cris: That's a good idea. We'll go there now. It's only across the road.
Amy: There was software loaded on it as well, so you won't have to pay anything extra.
Cris: Great. That's what I was looking for. Software is more expensive to buy separately.
Amy: What about ringing your parents first? They might want to talk to you and check you're getting the right one.

Cris: It's OK. They said I could get what I wanted. They've already given me the money towards it. So I'll pay by credit card.

Amy: Well, let's go then.

Woman: And just to finish our round-up of local news – Chris Peterson is going to tell us about the new Crossways sports and fitness centre.

Man: Yes, thank you. It's almost finished and the sports centre will be open to the public next week on June 16th – that's for sports and swimming. The fitness centre isn't quite finished, however, and won't be open until 21st August. The fitness centre looks out over the lake and has one of the best views in the area. So we're all looking forward to that.

I'll give you some information now about what you can do in the sports centre. There are facilities for indoor sports – that's squash, volleyball, basketball and table tennis – and outdoor sports like football, tennis and hockey.

There's also a new swimming pool. It's 50 metres long, that's twice the size of the old pool which was only 25 metres. And for those of you who want to get fit, you should book an appointment with an advisor in our fitness centre who will help you decide which equipment to use or which classes to join. For instance, we can show you equipment to make your legs stronger, or give you an exercise plan for your whole body.

If you want to reserve a place in a class, go to reception or phone the sports club number. There are keep fit classes, exercise and dance classes.

Our prices compare very well with other sports and fitness centres in the region. You pay an annual fee and then an entrance fee per visit. It's a good idea to book as it will get very busy on Saturdays and Sundays. Half-price entrance will be available on Wednesdays for students.

There's a website and I'll give you the phone number ...
