

SPEAKING

UNIT 10: FINDING SUCCESS

Lecturer: Quynh Trang, MA.

GRAMMAR FOR SPEAKING

GRAMMAR FOR SPEAKING Adverbs of Degree

We use adverbs of degree to make an idea stronger or weaker. Common examples include especially, extremely, kind of, particularly, quite, (not) really, so, and (not) very.

Adverbs of degree can modify adjectives:

It was extremely / not very / really good.

They can also modify other adverbs:

They did it especially / quite / so quickly.

Some adverbs of degree (but usually not extremely, so, or very) can modify certain verbs.

She particularly / really enjoyed working at that company.

In most cases, we put adverbs of degree before the word or information they modify.

189

C Listen to some excerpts from the talk. Write the adverbs of degree that you hear.

1. Sergey Brin and Larry Page didn't have a business plan, and their business has been kind of successful.
2. It worked, and Kieling ended up starting a business called PackIt, which is very successful.
3. That's not to say that achieving business success is especially easy. It's not, and in fact, there are five characteristics entrepreneurs do need. And I'm not joking this time.
4. You may fail along the way—most people do. But if you give up, it's extremely unlikely that you'll succeed.
5. And finally, well, I find that it really helps to have a good sense of humor!

189

D PERSONALIZE Choose the right adverbs. Then answer the questions.

1. What is one sport you (really / very) enjoy playing or watching?

2. What is one thing you can do (real / really) quickly and well?

3. What music do you think is (especially good / good especially)?

4. Which subject do you (not really / not very) want to study?

5. Where is one place you would (particularly / so) like to visit?

PRONUNCIATION

PRONUNCIATION Stress for Contrast

 We usually stress the last content word in each thought group.

The store sells clothes.

The entrepreneur achieved her aim.

Sometimes, however, we stress different words to emphasize a contrast. This can be to contrast two ideas or to suggest that some information was incorrect. This stress for contrast, or contrastive stress, is often stronger than stress in normal speech.

The store only sells cheap goods / not expensive ones.

Actually, / the entrepreneur didn't achieve her aim.

196

C Underline the words in this conversation that would be stressed for contrast. Then practice the conversation with a partner. Take turns saying each role.

BRIAN: Is everything ready for the presentation tomorrow?

ABBY: Tomorrow? The presentation's on Friday, not tomorrow.

BRIAN: Really? Oh, yes, right. Still, that gives you more time to prepare.

ABBY: Gives me more time? You're giving the presentation, Brian.

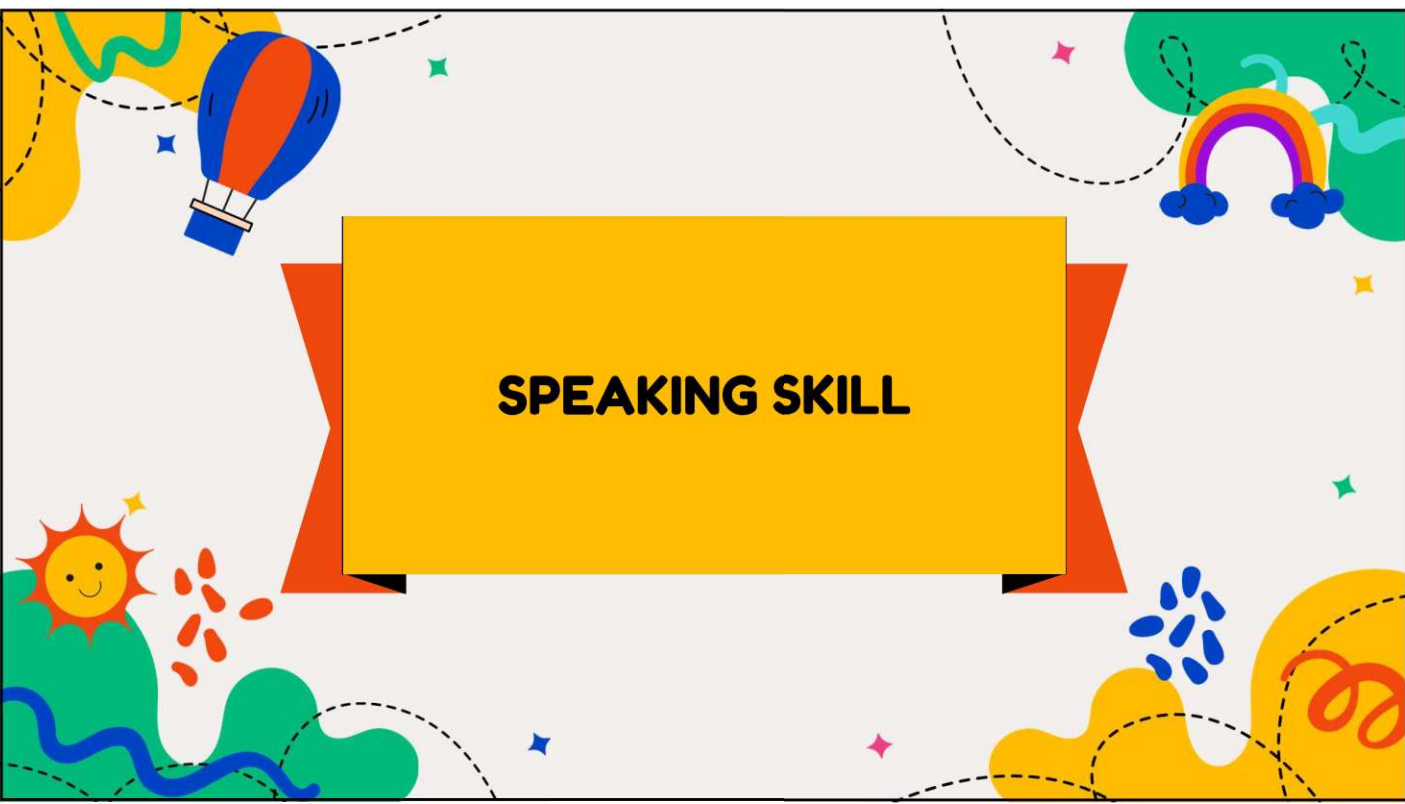

BRIAN: Really? Oh, yes, right. Don't worry, I know a lot about Asia. I'll easily finish.

ABBY: Asia? The talk's about our markets in South America and the Middle East!

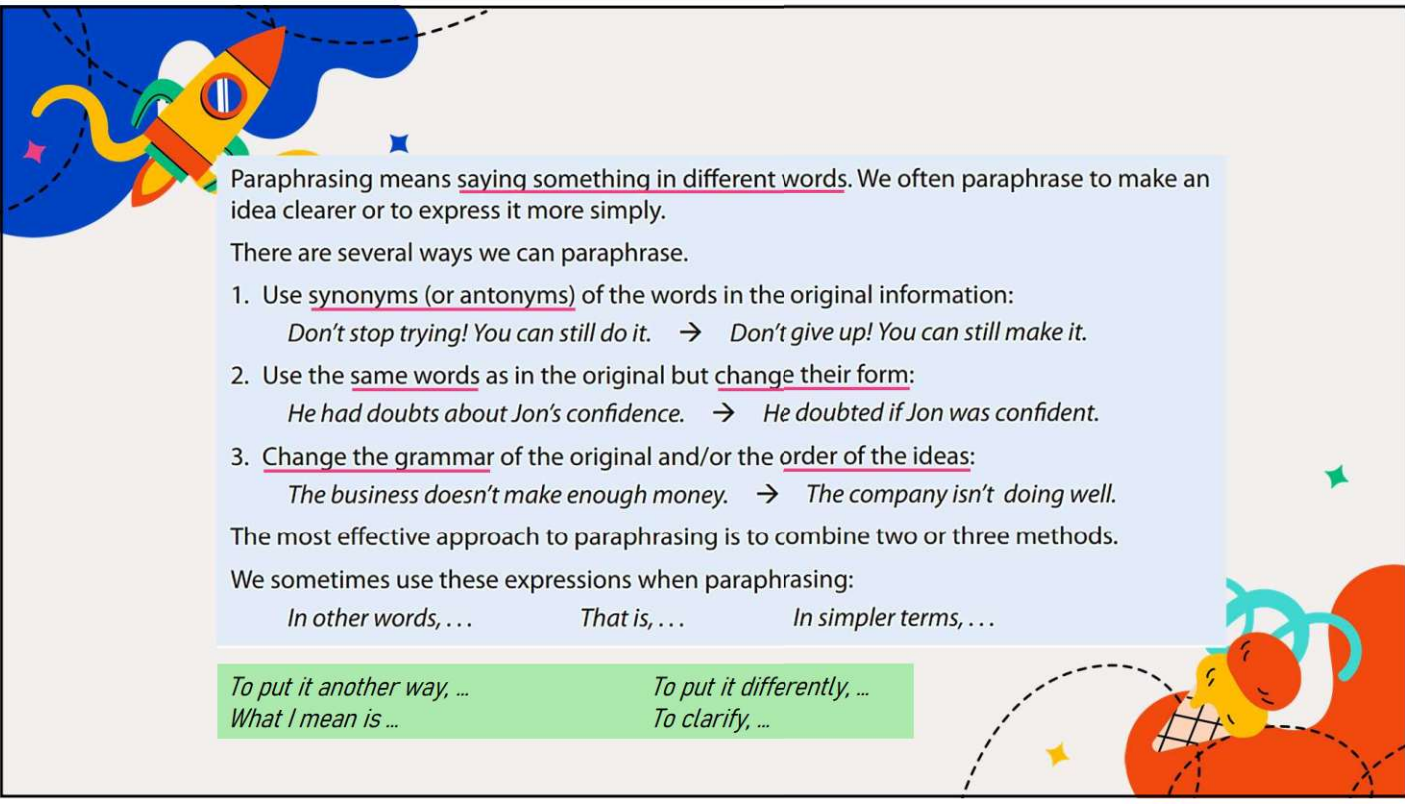

BRIAN: Really? Oh, yes, right. Well, then, I might need some help.

196

SPEAKING SKILL

Paraphrasing means saying something in different words. We often paraphrase to make an idea clearer or to express it more simply.

There are several ways we can paraphrase.

1. Use synonyms (or antonyms) of the words in the original information:

Don't stop trying! You can still do it. → Don't give up! You can still make it.

2. Use the same words as in the original but change their form:

He had doubts about Jon's confidence. → He doubted if Jon was confident.

3. Change the grammar of the original and/or the order of the ideas:

The business doesn't make enough money. → The company isn't doing well.

The most effective approach to paraphrasing is to combine two or three methods.

We sometimes use these expressions when paraphrasing:

In other words, ...

That is, ...

In simpler terms, ...

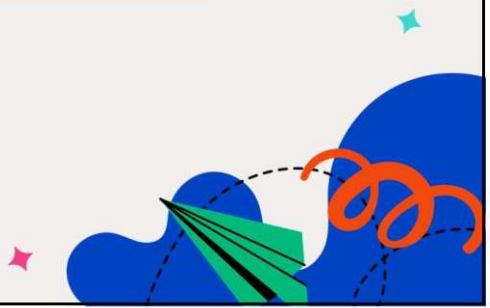

*To put it another way, ...
What I mean is ...*

*To put it differently, ...
To clarify, ...*

Paraphrase the sentence in a new way

1. I need to get something to eat.

> I need to get something to eat. In other words, I'm hungry.

Paraphrase the sentence in a new way

2. What's your motivation for learning English?

Possible answers:

- What I mean is why did you decide to learn English?
 - What I mean is what motivates you to learn English?
 - In other words, what is the reason behind your desire to learn English?
 - To put it differently, what inspires you to learn English?
 - To put it another way, why are you interested in learning English?
-

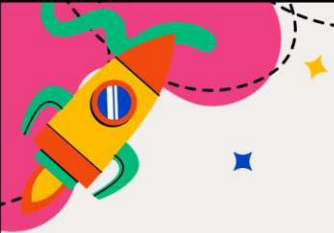

Paraphrase the sentence in a new way

3. Our English teacher knows a lot about grammar.

Possible answers:

- In other words, our English teacher has vast knowledge of grammar.
- What I mean is our English teacher has considerable expertise in grammar.
- To put it differently, our English teacher is a grammar expert.
- To put it another way, our English teacher is proficient in the use of English grammar.
- In other words, the grammar knowledge of our English teacher is impressive.

Paraphrase the sentence in a new way

4. I'm interested in starting my own business.

Possible answers:

- That is, I would like to be an entrepreneur.
- To put it differently, I want to be my own boss.
- To put it another way, the idea of being self-employed fascinates me.
- What I mean is I am motivated to explore the possibilities of building a start-up.

Paraphrase the sentence in a new way

5. Do you have a lot of self-confidence?

Possible answers:

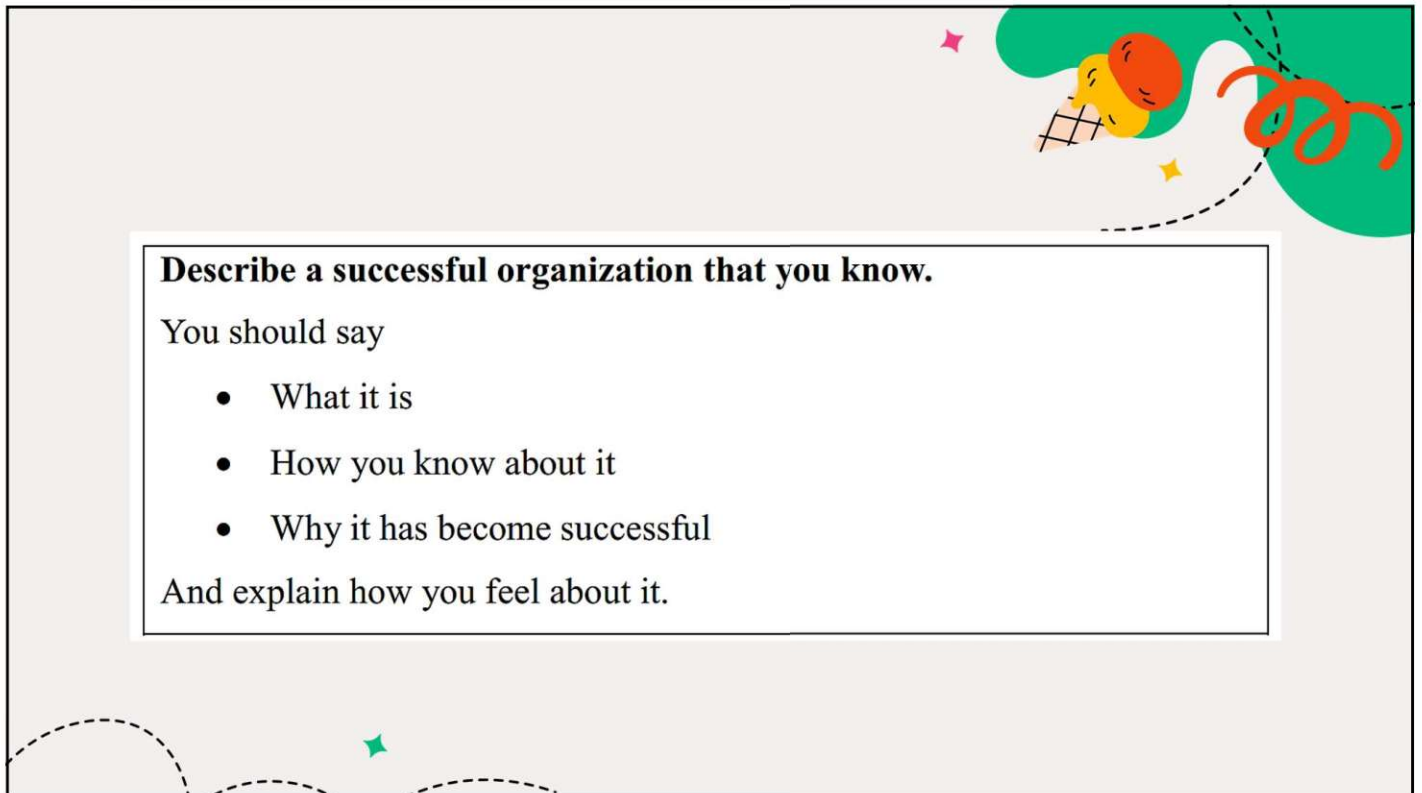

- In other words, are you a confident person?
 - To put it differently, would you say that you are confident in yourself?
 - To clarify, do you believe in yourself and your abilities?
 - To put it another way, would you describe yourself as a self-believer?
-

Paraphrase the sentence in a new way

6. I have never been on an airplane.

Possible answers:

- In other words, I have never flown anywhere.
 - That is, I have never had the chance to fly anywhere.
 - In other words, I have never gone anywhere by plane.
 - To put it differently, I have never taken a flight.
 - To put it another way, traveling by plane is something I have not tried yet.
 - To clarify, flying is something I have never experienced.
 - In other words, I have never been up in the air.
-

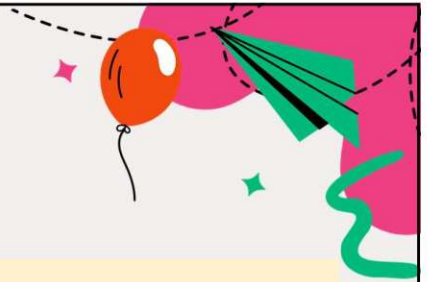

Describe a successful organization that you know.

You should say

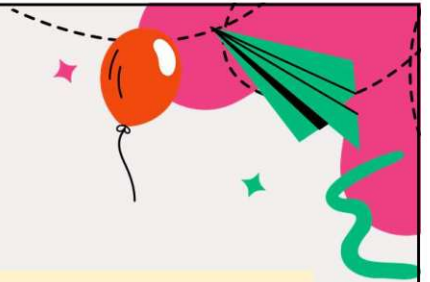

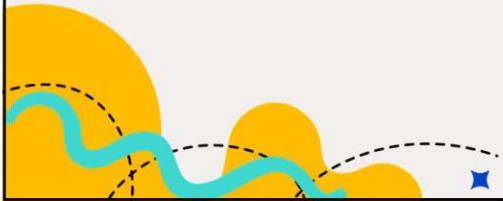

- What it is
- How you know about it
- Why it has become successful

And explain how you feel about it.

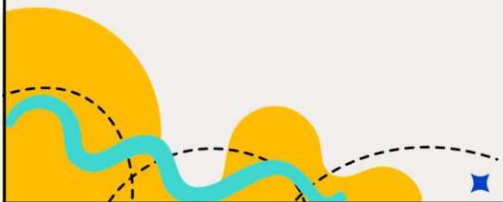

What it is

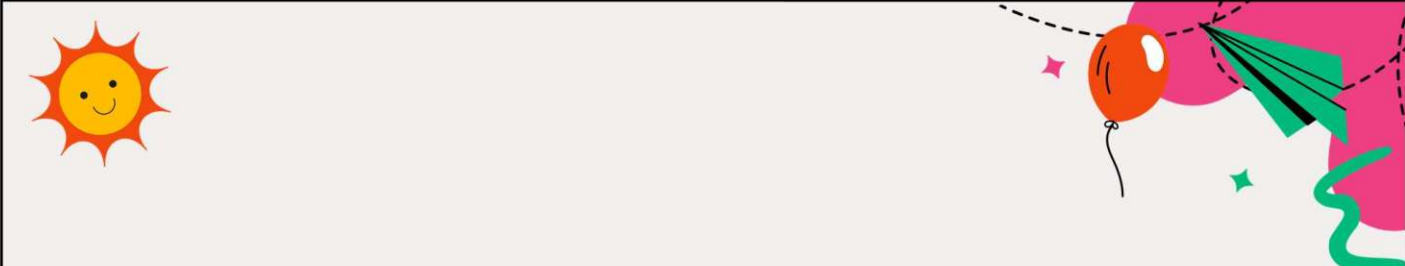

- What is the full name of the organization, and what is its primary mission or purpose?
- Where is the organization headquartered, and does it operate locally, nationally, or internationally?
- What are the main products, services, or initiatives it offers, and how do they benefit society, the environment, or the economy?
- How large is the organization in terms of employees, volunteers, or global reach (e.g., number of branches or countries involved)?
- What unique features or symbols does it have (e.g., a famous logo, slogan, or key campaigns) that make it stand out?

How you know about it

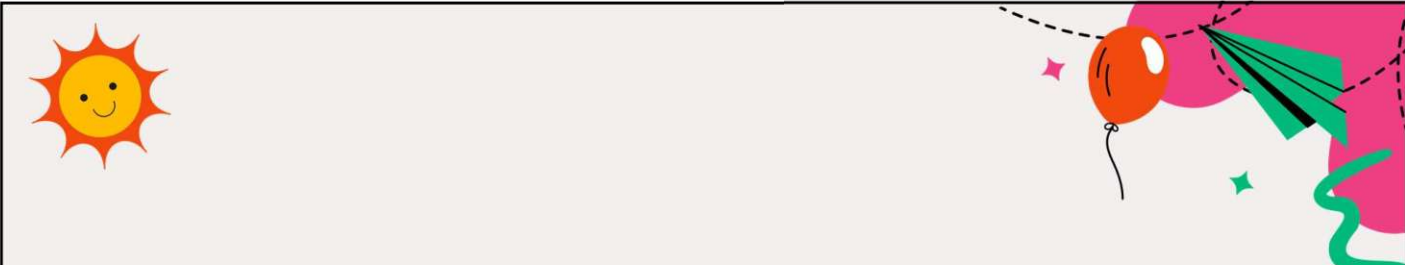

- When and where did you first learn about this organization (e.g., through school, media, personal experience, or word of mouth)?
- What sources of information have shaped your knowledge (e.g., news articles, social media, documentaries, or recommendations from friends/family)?
- Have you interacted with it directly, such as by using its products, volunteering, or attending events?
- How has your awareness of it evolved over time (e.g., from casual knowledge to deeper interest through research or involvement)?

Why it has become successful

- What key strategies or innovations has the organization used to achieve its goals (e.g., effective marketing, partnerships, or technological advancements)?
- How have the organization's strengths contributed to its growth and reputation?
- In what ways has the organization adapted to challenges (e.g., economic downturns, competition, or global issues) to maintain its success?
- What measurable impacts has it made (e.g., financial growth, environmental benefits, social change, or awards received)?

How you feel about it

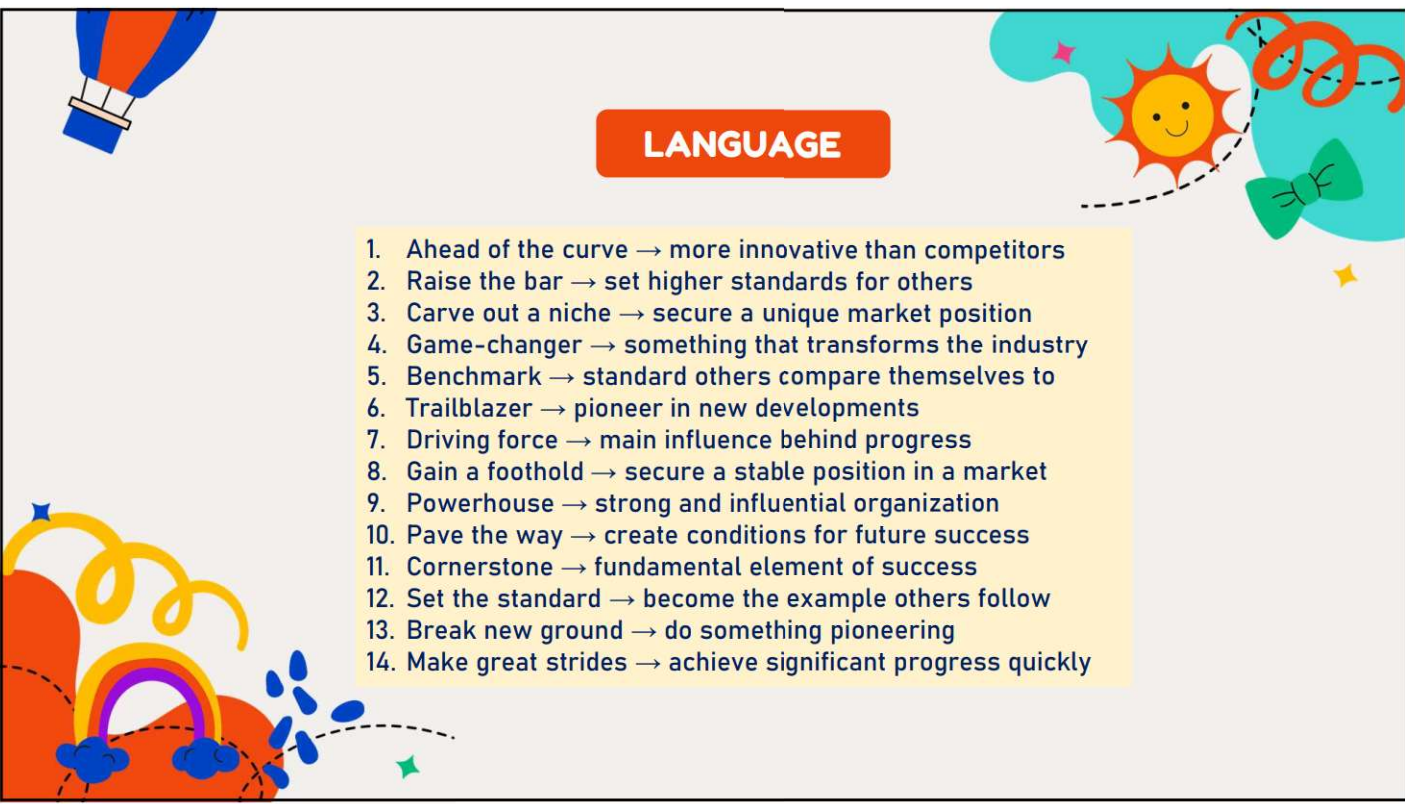

- What personal emotions or opinions do you have toward the organization (e.g., admiration, inspiration, or criticism)?
- How does it inspire you personally?
- Would you recommend others to support or learn from it?

When I think of a truly successful organization, Samsung immediately c... to m... R... than being just a technology brand, it is a global m...-i... company. H... in South Korea, it o... in several industries, but it is best k... for its c... electronics, particularly smartphones, televisions, and home appliances. I f... c... to know about Samsung through its smartphone advertisements, but later I experienced its products myself, and those h... experience with their e... really left a L... impression.

When I think of a truly successful organization, Samsung immediately comes to mind. Rather than being just a technology brand, it is a global multi-industry company. Headquartered in South Korea, it operates in several industries, but it is best known for its consumer electronics, particularly smartphones, televisions, and home appliances. I first came to know about Samsung through its smartphone advertisements, but later I experienced its products myself, and those hands-on experience with their ecosystem really left a lasting impression. ★

One k... factor in Samsung's success is its pioneering b... like foldable phones. Other d...ing factors such as massive R&D investments and b... a L... customer base with d... branding also help it s... a... of the competition. Moreover, Samsung has w... economic storms by diversifying into appliances and s... market opportunities in emerging economies — especially in Vietnam, where they have turned the country into one of their largest global p... bases and a vital L... in their supply chain, despite f... competition from Chinese manufacturers. In Vietnam alone, Samsung's total investment had reached 23.2 billion USD, developing L... factories in Bac Ninh and Thai Nguyen provinces, directly e... thousands of people and a... for 16% of Vietnam's total ex... value.

One key factor in Samsung's success is its pioneering breakthroughs like foldable phones. Other deciding factors such as massive R&D investments and building a loyal customer base with diverse branding also help it stay ahead of the competition. Moreover, Samsung has weathered economic storms by diversifying into appliances and seizing market opportunities in emerging economies — especially in Vietnam, where they have turned the country into one of their largest global production bases and a vital link in their supply chain, despite fierce competition from Chinese manufacturers. In Vietnam alone, Samsung's total investment had reached 23.2 billion USD, developing large-scale factories in Bac Ninh and Thai Nguyen provinces, directly employing thousands of people and accounting for 16% of Vietnam's total export value. ★

LANGUAGE

1. Ahead of the curve → more innovative than competitors
2. Raise the bar → set higher standards for others
3. Carve out a niche → secure a unique market position
4. Game-changer → something that transforms the industry
5. Benchmark → standard others compare themselves to
6. Trailblazer → pioneer in new developments
7. Driving force → main influence behind progress
8. Gain a foothold → secure a stable position in a market
9. Powerhouse → strong and influential organization
10. Pave the way → create conditions for future success
11. Cornerstone → fundamental element of success
12. Set the standard → become the example others follow
13. Break new ground → do something pioneering
14. Make great strides → achieve significant progress quickly